

NOVA SCOTIA COURT of APPEAL

Court User Survey on Court of Appeal Experiences

May 26, 2026

This short anonymous survey is part of a project at the Nova Scotia Court of Appeal that is reviewing the Chambers process. The survey is aimed at gathering input and information from the legal profession on the Chambers process at the Court of Appeal. The information provided will be analyzed for the purposes of a research report being completed by an intern at the Court of Appeal. This report will be reviewed by the judiciary and may be made public.

Your answers will help identify issues, particularly with accessibility, and inform potential changes to the Civil Procedure Rules for their ability to reduce the time and procedural complexity of appeals for counsel. By completing this survey, you will make sure that your experiences are considered in any potential changes.

The survey will be anonymous, but collated, and the resulting report may be published. The survey consists mostly of “yes or no” questions, or questions that may be answered with a single sentence. However, if you have time to give further context, it is both appreciated and will be considered for the report. The survey will be closed on June 26th.
